Northern Ontario Ag Conference 2024

New Liskeard, ON, January 27, 2024 – The Northern Ontario Farm Innovation Alliance (NOFIA) is preparing for their annual Northern Ontario Ag Conference taking place February 12 & 13, 2024 at the Science North in Sudbury, ON.

This year's theme is "Cultivating Connections & Celebrating Sustainability." Sessions will focus on topics such as the evolution of agriculture considering a changing world, indigenous agriculture projects, vet access project, opportunities in forages, carbon sequestration & research in mycorrhizae, hops and malting barley opportunity for Northern Ontario, management of finances amid rising costs, and the evolution of technology in agriculture. The conference will feature research presentations, producer panel discussions, networking opportunities, a trade show and more.

The conference aims to bring people together to foster new relationships in the industry post-pandemic, while taking a look at current research taking place in Northern Ontario as it relates to the sustainability of the sector.

"We look forward to being back together in person to network and learn, while building foundations for future collaborations to grow the agri-food sector in Northern Ontario," said Emily Seed, Executive Director of NOFIA.
